Book Event on June 21st

Long time Halsey Hall Chapter member Dan Levitt announces a publication party for the release of his book, Paths to Glory: How Great Baseball Teams Got That Way, on Saturday evening, June 21st, from 6:30 to 9:00 p.m. at the Minnesota Center for Book Arts at Open Book, 1011 Washington Avenue South, Minneapolis. Dan will be reading passages from his book at 7:15 and folks will be have opportunities to have their copy autographed by Dan throughout the evening. Acquiring the autograph of co-author and fellow SABR member Mark Armour, might be a little more difficult since Mark will not be present. Beverages and snacks will be available with casual attire the norm and children welcome. Please RSVP with Dina at (612) 215-2528 or at dsweeney@mnbooksart.org as soon as possible so they know how many people to expect.

Chapter Book Club

Six regulars (Tom Swift, Stew Thornley, Art Mugalian, Greg Omoth, Bob Tholkes and Rich Arpi) and one irregular (Jim Wyman) met on Saturday June 7th to discuss biographies of Walter Johnson. Somehow, we got 45 minutes into the meeting and hadn't even mentioned his name once. That is proof positive that you need not have read the selected book or books to participate in this book club. We started out discussing a couple of recent releases, including Moneyball: The Art of Winning an Unfair Game by Michael Lewis, and various other baseball strategies. Finally we did indeed get to biographies of Walter Johnson, including the dreadfully awful (by current SABR scholarship standards) Walter Johnson: King of the Pitchers by Roger L. Treat (Julian Messner, 1948). Bob Tholkes and Rich Arpi found and read copies of this biography that is really quite typical of the baseball biographies produced before 1970 or so. The book was all very laudatory of Johnson with an emphasis on telling selected stories about Johnson's baseball career (a good portion of the book was an account of the 1924 World Series). Other biographies written in more recent years on Walter Johnson include Jack Kavanagh's biography released in the mid 1990s and Henry W. Thomas' (Walter Johnson's grandson) book Walter Johnson: Baseball's Big Train (1995). Unfortunately time restricted discussion of these two books to only a few comments. The next book meeting will be August 2nd at the Barnes and Noble (Edina Galleria) at 10:00 am. The book will be Dan Levitt and Mark Armour' Paths to Glory.

IDEAS FOR HOLY COW EXTRA WANTED

Bob Tholkes, current editor of the quarterly publication of the Halsey Hall Chapter called the Holy Cow Extra, would welcome any suggestions about topics for future issues. While fourteen excellent issues have been issued since its debut in January 2000, Bob is somewhat at a loss to what to do next. Among the possible topics discussed at the Board meeting of June 7th were essays from members on how they got interested in baseball, recollections of one's first major league game, and the future of the game of baseball (as possibly a poll that would be filled out by members and returned to the editor), or a survey of baseball interest (or lack thereof) by teenagers or folks in their 20s (somewhat younger than the average SABR member). The next issue is due the end of July, so please forward any suggestions on to Bob Tholkes at 763-781-6161 or rjtholkes@msn.com.

Northwoods League Game. On Sunday June 8th, several chapter members attended a Northwoods League game at Rochester between the Rochester Honkers and the St. Cloud River Bats. Rochester scored five runs in the first inning, including a three run home run by J.P. Moran. St. Cloud scored three runs in the third and one in the seventh, but fell one run short and left 11 runners on base. This is a college league that uses wood bats and Gopher Matt Fornasiere was in the St. Cloud lineup. Howard won a dinner from the local Red Lobster for having the signed program. Another Northwoods League outing is scheduled for August 3rd in St. Cloud at Dick Putz Field (5001 8th Street N) at 7:05. Game will be against the Mankato Moondogs. Contact Howard Luloff (952)922-5036 or Hfan77@webtv.net if interested.
